Soulidifly Productions Statement on the Lynching of George Floyd

The lynching of George Floyd has touched a raw nerve around the globe. The crime played out on national TV for all to witness. I have never seen a man die on the street before. I wanted to believe that the nation I was born in would always do right by me. I now realize that it's not up to America alone to make change. It won't on its own. It's up to me and every person of good conscience to change America.

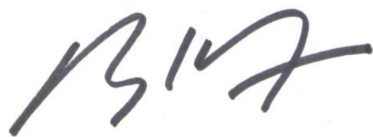

The people have the power. We elect the politicians. We pay for the police. We pay for the schools and the infrastructure and the military. We make this country what it is. The people do that, not one group or one President. We have the power to put people into the position to change America.

Soulidifly Productions stands in solidarity with Black Lives Matter. We demand the immediate end to violence against African Americans. We demand that lynching be made a federal crime. We demand parity in funding for all schools and the integration of Black history with the standard curriculum in all schools. We demand equal housing and fair lending for all underrepresented groups. We demand equal pay and the return of voting privileges for the disenfranchised.

In addition, we join with other leaders and social justice organizations in the demand for a holistic agenda for the advancement of women and people of color.

Soulidifly Productions vows to use its resources and artistic expressions to become the change we seek. In doing so, we support those who peacefully protest and bring attention to the systemic issues of race and prejudice that for too long have stained our nation. Together, we can change America.

Sincerely,

BK Fulton
